In my opinion, Microsoft's proposed settlement to the law suit is a fair solution to ending this long, ongoing fight by competitors to try to bring Microsoft its knees. The willingness of nine states to accept the settlement clearly demonstrates that it is fair and reasonable. But nothing will ever be enough "punishment" for those states who want to damage Microsoft.

I urge the DOJ to recommend acceptance of the settlement proposal. Allow Microsoft, along with its new awareness of business practices, to continue building great software and services for users around the world.
